

TOBIAS JUST

Moving between painting and drawing, Just's works reveal a fragile terrain where material presence and the unfinished coexist. Layers of pigment, erased gestures, and shifting motifs transform ordinary impressions—pharmacy displays, a moth hovering in his room—into images that hover between the everyday and the imaginary.

At the core of his practice lies an embrace of imperfection: mistakes, hesitations, and uncertainties are not concealed but allowed to breathe, giving each work a sense of openness and life. Snoring Sounds invites visitors to pause, slow down, and notice what usually slips past attention—the delicate residues, fleeting moods, and overlooked presences that quietly shape how we inhabit the world.

Tobias Just (b. 1998, Denmark) lives and works between Brussels and Copenhagen. He graduated from the Department of Sculpture at the Hochschule für bildende Künste in Hamburg, where he studied under Jason Dodge. His works have been presented in international institutions and independent spaces such as Den Frie (Copenhagen), YWV (Vienna), and Fasilet Art Circus (Hamburg).
